Hi

Atlassian Team '23 is coming up in Las Vegas from April 18–20, 2023, and I am requesting to attend. I have outlined a business case for your review, and I'm happy to answer any other questions.

- In today's landscape, everyone wants to figure out better ways to work. Atlassian Team '23 has an entire session track devoted to modern ways of working, breaking down silos, and scaling collaboration.
- Team '23 gives us an opportunity to connect with Atlassian leadership and our peers to learn from their experiences and gain a better understanding of how to improve teamwork and collaboration across the business. This will help us grow professionally and stay in sync with industry trends and the future of work.
- We'll learn research-backed practices and participate in hands-on workshops where we'll gain product optimization takeaways to apply right away. This will mean less time spinning our wheels and more time being productive.

Here is a budget breakdown based on this ask:

- Registration: $750 super fan rate; $900 early bird; $1800 standard
 - We can get additional discounts if we purchase passes as a team.
